

INVESTIGATING DISPOSSESSION

CONFLICT AND COEXISTENCE

1838-1844

Edited by Bruce Pennay with Yalmambirra and Paul Grover.

INVESTIGATING DISPOSSESSION

CONFLICT AND COEXISTENCE

1838-1844

edited by Bruce Pennay with Yalmambirra and Paul Grover

Published by Albury and District Historical Society Inc.

Financial assistance for the publication from an AlburyCity Community and Cultural grant funded by Albury City Council.

Albury & District Historical Society Inc
Wiradjuri Country
PO Box 822
Albury 2640.

AlburyCity Council
PO Box 323
Albury 2640

The responsibility for selecting themes, posing investigations, gathering evidence and providing annotations lies with Bruce Pennay. Yalmambirra and Paul Grover provided high levels of editorial assistance. Bruce Pennay is an Adjunct Associate Professor at Charles Sturt University. Yalmambirra is a Research Fellow for the Gulbali Institute at Charles Sturt University. Paul Grover is a Lecturer in Education at Charles Sturt University.

Produced online and in print by Kwik Kopy, Albury-Wodonga, 2025.

Available at <https://alburyhistory.org.au/investigating-dispossession/> or the QR code.

ISBN 1835-5455

©Bruce Pennay

Cover images and colour:

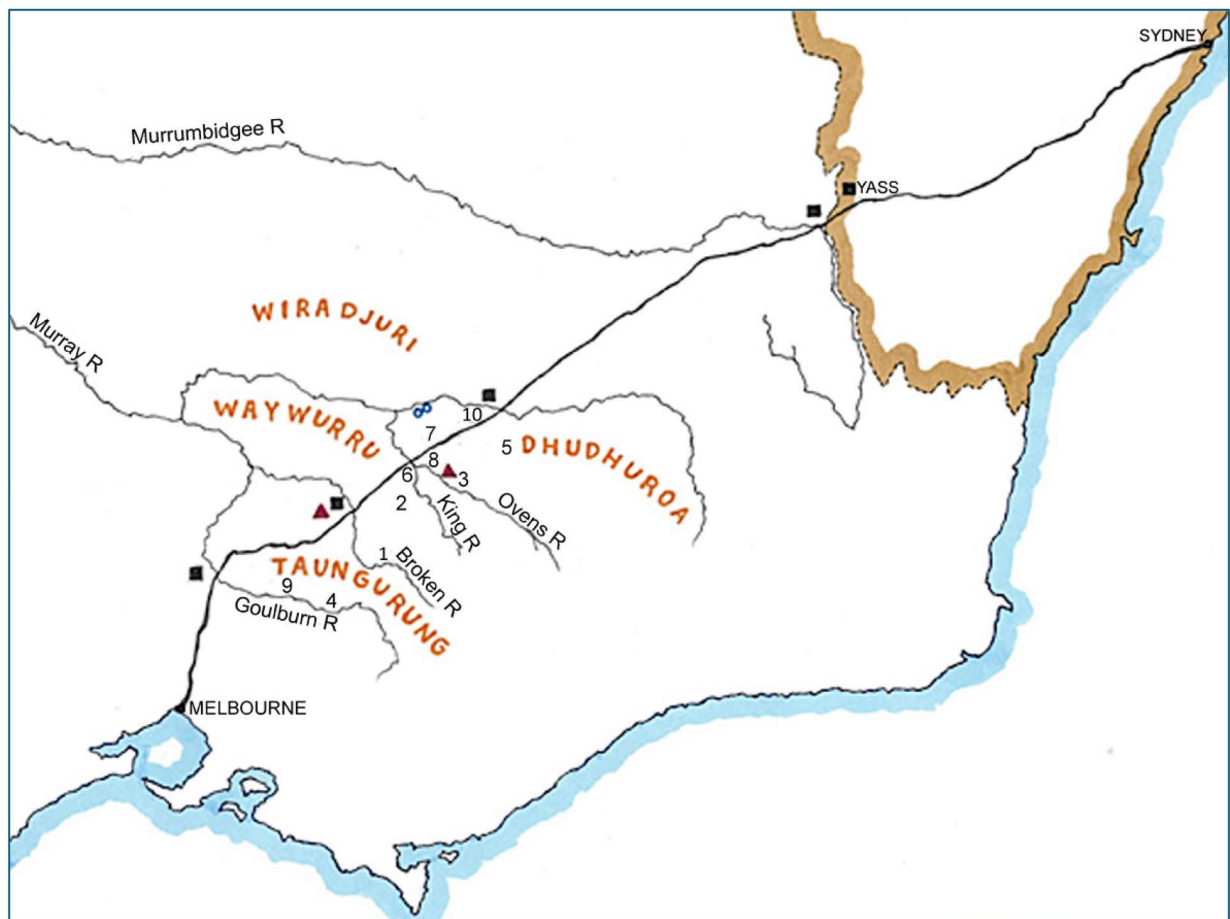

Sketch of Minnup (endowed name Merriman) being force marched as a prisoner to Melbourne, George Augustus Robinson, the Chief Protector of Aborigines in the Port Phillip District, Ian D Clark, The Journals of George Augustus Robinson, Heritage Matters, Melbourne, 1998, Figure 12.1, p 48.

'Civilisation' by Wiradjuri artist, Tommy McRae (aka Yakaduna), Tommy McRae Sketchbook, National Museum of Australia, no date c.1860, M4, Moral permission Jean Morgan-Kelly.

The cover colour approximates the soil samples taken from Mungabareena and Wodonga as representative of Wiradjuri country in a 'Bungambrawatha' exhibition display at the Albury LibraryMuseum.

The route from Yass to Port Phillip, 1838-1844

Map Celia Pennay

- Mounted police barracks
- Lake Moodemere
- Major battles

First Nations Peoples' language countries (approximate) and a selection of licensed runs Southwest of the limits of location beyond Yass: 1 Stuckey; 2 Chisholm; 3 Mackay; 4 Waugh; 5 Huon; 6 Faithfull; 7 Docker; 8 Reid; 9 Snodgrass; 10 Barber.

CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION

PEOPLE AND PLACE PICTURE PROMPTS

1. Introducing Sir George Gipps, the Governor of New South Wales, 1838-1846
2. Introducing Major James Nunn and the Mounted Police
3. Introducing Commissioner Henry Bingham and the Border Police
4. Introducing Lady Franklin and her letters
5. Introducing George Augustus Robinson and his journal
6. Introducing Tommy McRae (aka Yakaduna) and his drawings
7. Mapping dispossession

INVESTIGATION ONE: A 'most furious attack' at Broken River, 1838-39: resistance and reprisals

List of sources

1. Contemporary newspaper report
2. Squatters' memories of their responses
3. Remembering reprisals in 1875 and 1883
4. The Yoorrook Justice Commission remembered Broken River
5. The political aftermath: a list of complaints, a proposal and threat made to Governor Gipps
6. Reporting Governor Gipps' response to the complaints, proposal and threat (1) and (2)
7. The proposed military posts
8. The proposed settlement towns
9. The Yoorrook Justice Commission reflected on the introduction of British law and order

INVESTIGATION TWO: A 'grand' attack at Whorouly, 1840-1844: resistance and reprisals

List of sources

1. A contemporary newspaper account
2. An eyewitness account of the attack
3. An official report on the attack
4. Squatter memories
5. Major Samuel Lettsom's mission
6. Observations and reports by George Augustus Robinson, the Chief Protector of Aborigines of Port Phillip
7. The Yoorrook Justice Commission reflected on colonial injustice

INVESTIGATION THREE: Negotiating coexistence

List of sources

1. Travelling overland with Lady Franklin, 1839
2. Travelling north, then south, with George Augustus Robinson, 1840-1844
3. Looking at colonisation through Tommy McRae's eyes

PUBLIC MEMORY PLACES

1. The how and why of remembering at public memory places
2. Finding out about remembering conflict and coexistence
3. Towards remembering and interpreting an unmarked massacre site
4. Towards remembering and interpreting a Wiradjuri/Waywurru encampment
5. Towards remembering and interpreting an early contact zone

CONCLUSION

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS AND BIBLIOGRAPHY